

MuLiMob EC project releases its 2 first reports

Funded by the European Commission as part of the IST programme, MuLiMob SSA aims to make the most of Europe's multilingual and multicultural diversity for the benefit of its mobile users and workers, by making information available on current and potential developments and by identifying research to be done. The music industry is MuLiMob's territory of action.

Thanks to the participation of major companies within the mobile industry in Europe, MuLiMob, the MultiLingualism and Mobility EC project, is pleased to announce the publication of its two first reports:

1. The technical report gives an overview of the technological state of being and future trends within mobile communication and wireless technologies.
2. The market report is the synthesis of the different European trends that the MuLiMob team foresee and advise to take into consideration, with the music sector as a basis, for a stronger multilingual and mobile Europe.

You can download the reports at www.mulimob.org.

MuLiMob's vision and ambition is to use Europe's linguistic and cultural diversity as hallmark to bolster the mobile market: to acknowledge the importance of recognizing cultural diversity and identifying potential applications for multilingualism in the mobile environment; to consider development methods, technology and business models, as well as lowering the barriers that currently limit deployment in the mobile marketplace and increasing interoperability and openness.

MuLiMob's main objectives are to enhance the wireless community's awareness of multilingual and multicultural mobile services and application issues; to stimulate a rapid take up of innovative ideas, within the whole mobile value chain, for user-friendly and cost effective multilingual services for mobile users; and to identify issues and problems that need further research, applications or solutions.
